
Poll update: Are you sick of RPGs?

(Tuesday, 19 June 2007) - Contributed by Adam (Vergil) - Last Updated ()

Well, it seems the majority of us (6) are stoked about Starcraft II, and feel Blizzard can pull it off. A few are skeptical (1 thought it'd be good but not as good, and 2 didn't think Blizzard had it in them) however, and perhaps wisely so. Had I not seen the gameplay footage demo they made, I too might be skeptical. Time will tell at this point. The next poll is about RPGs. World of Warcraft, Guild Wars, Oblivion, and with Warhammer Online, Hellgate: London, more expansions on the horizon, this is a genre that has been pushed on us, and pushed on us quite hard the last few years. The question is, is this a bad thing? Do we actually tire of these stat-calculating often-teamwork-focused monster-slayers? Or do we eat them up, our unsatiable hunger only satisfied when the content of one game leads us to demand the next? You decide!{mos_sb_discuss: 4}